WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 18, 1888

This sleety weather ought to boom the accident insurance business.

A MICHIGAN man pays $13 dog tax and $2.50 on his real estate. What land-grabbers those Northwesterners are?

CONGRESSMAN GEORGE M. THOMAS has introduced in the House the following: A bill for the relief of James Mahaffey; a bill granting Amanda F. Wood a pension and a bill for the relief of Franklin White.

THE Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat publishes Judge Cole's open letter to the people of this district and comments on it as follows:

It has the ring of true manhood, and until strong, honest, unbiased and unbiassed is produced to the contrary, we shall believe that Judge Cole is an honest judge and an honorable gentleman.

THE present rates of tolls on the main turnpikes in this county have been in effect for years and years. That they are regarded too high is evidenced by the "free turnpike" agitation. Suppose the various companies make a reduction and try the low-toll system for a while at least. We believe they would not find it detrimental to their interests.

Who the Tariff Favors.

There was imported last year a total of $14,200,000 worth of woolen goods and the duty paid on them amounted to $29,700,000, equal to an average of over 67 per cent.

The total imports of silk in the same time were $31,200,000, which paid a duty of $15,500,000, equal to an average of 49 per cent.

This well illustrates the workings of the iniquitous tariff. The figures are official. A comparison will show that woolen goods—the principal clothing of the poor—are taxed over 18 per cent. more than goods of silk, which is almost exclusively the wear of the rich. In other words the present tariff taxes the poor over 18 per cent. more on their clothing than it does the rich.

CREATOR OF BOOTBLACKS' STANDS.

The Industry Pursued by an Italian—The Consequences of Today.

Few, probably, of the men who patronize the many shoe blacking establishments in the streets and sit in comfortable arm chairs on brass ornamented stands ever stop to think of the origin of these conveniences. They have increased in number so rapidly within the past few years that they are now as common a sight as a street lamp or a horse car. The majority of the stands are made in North street by an Italian, who proudly claims the honor of inventing them. His triangular shaped shop is over a blacksmith's and is reached by a short flight of rough wooden steps that might almost be called a ladder. In this small shop, with one window, boot blacking stands are piled from floor to ceiling. They are in various stages of completion and in different sizes, some being large enough for one, two or three chairs, so that a purchaser may buy according to his means. They range in price from $2 for a pine wood, painted, single chair stand, as high as $40. But, of course, no frightened bootblack would buy a $2 affair. He would aspire to one made of mahogany and brass mounted, which would cost him $8 or $10.

Zinc is going out of fashion as a covering for the top, and brass is taking its place. A stand large enough for three chairs was in process of construction, and when finished will be sold for $30. It contained three lock drawers for brushes and blacking, besides a money drawer, and will have a brass top and trimmings.

The genial inventor is a good looking Italian about 50 years of age, who has been in this city six or seven years. He seemed pleased to talk of his work, but deplored the fact that four or five men who had worked under him had set up similar workshops, so that he has not so many orders as formerly. He unlocked the door of a small office and showed some designs for the foot rests. There were stately canes, fierce looking lions, ponies and soldiers, but the most original was a cavalier on a prancing charger framed in a horseshoe. These are the Italian's own designs. He buys a child's toy, twists it to satisfy himself and adds to it or takes away until he is suited, and carries it to the foundry, where it is cast in iron for him.—New York Evening World.

Schools for Pickpockets.

Notwithstanding the assurance of the police that there are no schools for pickpockets in the city, there are unquestionably several Fagins in town. A short time ago there was an Egyptian who kept a candy stand on Broadway, who had no fewer than thirteen boys under his direction engaged in pocket picking. He was finally captured by the police and in his stand was found fully $100 worth of silk pocket handkerchiefs which his pupils had stolen. There are now, according to the estimate of a well known police official not less than 1,500 pickpockets in this city in active practice.

CHAT ABOUT DRUGS.

A FEW OF THE MEDICINES THAT PATIENTS HAVE TO SWALLOW.

What a Physician Has to Say—Applications of the Most Important Drugs. Watching for the Leading Symptoms. A Professional Secret.

"What are some of the most important drugs and their applications?" said a leading physician as he repeated the reporter's interrogatory. "Why, you will be surprised," he said, "when I make the statement that not over a dozen of the hundred and odd drugs upon the shelves of any city prescription store are in general use among the profession or considered important in combating disease. No need for astonishment, it is a fact; and my experience from day to day, based upon observations in an extended practice, leads me to the conclusion that there is only one drug—quinine—which can be relied on to produce uniform results. Quinine approaches a specific more closely than any other remedy known to medical practice. All other drugs vary, and at times to an alarming extent, in the results produced by their administration, but quinine is very nearly infallible in the treatment of that class of disease popularly termed malarial, and about one-half the mortality of the world may be traced to those diseases. In fact in all cases of blood poisoning this drug is the favorite. In the valley of the Loire, in France; along certain portions of the Thames river, in England; the Roman Campagna and the Pontine marshes, in Italy; the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, and the mangrove swamps of the tropical regions, where malaria is endemic, the continued use of quinine is an absolute necessity, and from these regions no dire results have ever been recorded against it. Is there a quinine habit? I have never met but one case. The effect of the drug is not speedy enough to have its use deteriorate into a habit.

"Next to quinine iodide and bromide of potassium lay tribute on the profession, although their action at times is sadly erratic. The former with iron constitutes the basis of blood purifiers, so called, although such a thing as a blood purifier, in the popular acceptance of the term, is unknown in medicine. It exists only on the cure all placards of the patent medicine compounder, and in the materia medica of the quack. Iodide of potassium acts as an absorbent in the blood, and its efficacy as a remover of impurities is brought about in that way.

"Bromide of potassium and with it chloral are used principally in the treatment of nervous diseases. They lessen the flow of blood to the brain, moderate nervous activity, and calm exciting emotions, producing a state of mental rest. Thus they are used largely in the treatment of the insane, and in cases of mental exhaustion. Digitalis is probably entitled to the next place from its importance as a heart tonic. We appeal to it in cases of weakness of the heart, and in most cases of diseases affecting that organ, although its use does not cover every species of heart disease. Bismuth and pepsin are the remedies the profession considers the most efficacious in the treatment of the internal organs of digestion. The former is used in disturbances of the stomach and bowels, while the latter is supposed to supply the lack of acid, which is one of the instruments by which food is digested in the stomach. In surgery carbolic acid and iodoform are the principal drugs used. The acid acts as a disinfectant, the other has important properties in healing.

"Drugs," the doctor continued, "and their administration is the least arduous part of a physician's business; the great field that exercises skill and acknowledges ability in the profession and out of it lies in the determining of disease or the study of its symptoms. Here is where the physician pauses. We only know disease by its symptoms, and when we are called to the bedside of the sick person our energies are bent to discover the most prominent existing symptoms, and, knowing these, the great traditions of the science and our own experiences point out the remedies that are applicable. And here let me say that there is scarcely such a thing as wrong treatment, so often heard assailing members of the profession when they fail to effect a speedy cure. As I have said, we always treat the leading symptoms first. This is the invariable and only rule that can guide us, but frequently the drugs that have done most efficacious work before in combating exactly the same symptoms appear perfectly useless in the present case; this is owing, of course, to the existence of the latent symptoms which will determine the nature of the disease, and for which we are compelled to wait—unless dismissed in the meantime as incompetent in the opinion of the patient, or his friends, and a new man called."

"Do many people consult you, doctor, whose ills are imaginary?" interrogated the scribe. The doctor smiled and lighted his cigar.

"In answering your inquiry," he said, "it will be necessary for me to unload a professional secret, but I guess it has leaked out before this. Many of our office consultations are with people who are laboring under the apprehension that they are about to become invalids. Why, a case of that character left my office not an hour ago. He is a railroad engineer, and thought his kidneys were affected, an idea produced, I suppose, by an occasional pain in the muscles of the back caused by the continued position which those men are compelled to assume. I gave him a prescription and told him he would be all right, although he didn't need it any more than you or I. I'll guarantee, though, that that prescription, which will fill a large bottle, will not hurt him, for it's nothing but a little syrup and water, with sufficient sarsaparilla added to color it. Why did I give it to him? Because if I told him that he needed no medicine he would in all probability go to some other physician 'who knew his business' and get the worth of his money, as he would term it. By giving him that prescription I have saved him another fee. I used to tell such people when I first began practice that they needed no medicine, but I found that my honest advice was attributed to ignorance on my part of their hypothetical disease. Strange, isn't it, but it is a fact, that the majority of persons who visit a physician want something for their money, and generally the more medicine they can get, and as a consequence, the larger their druggist's bill becomes the better you please them."

The King's Head.

The king's head was first used as one of the hall marks on English silver in 1784. The story is that George III, having attended a dinner at Goldsmith's hall, was greatly impressed with the rich display of plate used on that occasion. His majesty was in need of money, it being just after the close of the American war, and the idea was suggested that silver plate was a good article for taxation. Soon after the duty act was passed, which imposed a tax of sixpence per ounce on all silver made in England, and also enacted that the additional stamp of the king's head or duty mark should be placed on all articles as an evidence that the duty had been paid. The sovereign's head is the fifth mark, therefore any piece of English silver with only four marks is certainly over 100 years old. There are many fine specimens of the earlier period owned in Boston.—Boston Transcript.

The secretary of the American Society for Psychical Research says that it is impossible to tell by the looks of a person whether or not he is a good subject for the hypnotist. Be he light or dark, tall or short, stout or slender, sanguine or melancholy, it does not seem to make any difference. Those ordinary variations in the human makeup do not indicate the peculiar quality necessary in a good subject. It is a fact, however, that hysterical persons contain a larger proportion of good subjects than any other class, and the larger number of experiments made by French physicians have been upon hysterical women. Among the insane the proportion of good subjects is smaller than among the sane.

One interesting case is told of the effect of being hypnotized upon a woman in an insane asylum. On the first occasion it took the hypnotizer four hours to put the woman to sleep. He kept his eyes within a short distance of hers, as she was fastened down, and moved them as she moved hers, until she came perfectly under his influence. Later operations required less time. The queer thing about the case was that her mind, while in the hypnotic state, was sane. Gradually the sanity was transferred to her real waking moments, and she was finally completely cured. She was of a low, criminal nature, but has been so changed that she is now a nurse in that same hospital. The secretary is on the lookout now for peculiarly susceptible persons on whom to perform experiments, and he hopes that much will be done in Boston this winter for this new field of science.—Chicago Times.

REV. H. L. NAVE, of Mt. Sterling, a minister of the North Presbyterian Church, has suddenly become almost totally blind. The sight of one eye first failed suddenly and without any apparent cause, and in a few hours blindness of the other eye followed. The case is a singular one and has attracted much attention.

A LIVES man would make a handsome thing every year by utilizing the B. F. Thomas warehouse, on Market street, as a miscellaneous storage depot, and that too without interfering with his other business. A good tenant has offered $30 a month for first floor and cellar, and the third floor has storage now amounting to $10.07 a month and will contain twice as much more as is in it at present, thus leaving the second and fourth floors vacant. dj18&25w1t

THE STATE SOLONS.

Notes and Comments on Our Law Makers and What They are Doing at Frankfort.

A bill has been introduced to provide for the monthly payment of the salaries of teachers of common schools in this Commonwealth. It is a measure that should have been passed years ago.

A bill is to be introduced and will likely be passed revising the schedule of fees for Circuit and County Clerks and Justices of the Peace. The complaint was made that no two officers in the State taxed the same fees in similar cases.

The Senate has passed the House bill, providing for taking the sense of the good people of this Commonwealth on the proposition for calling a convention to amend the Constitution, and determine the number of voters entitled to vote thereon.

The account in full amounts to $1,427.98, but 20 per cent. is retained until next September as required by law.

A commission was issued to take the deposition of Thomas W. Mitchell, of Grayson, Carter County, as one of the subscribing witnesses to the will of the late Robert Bedford.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

William Morton, colored, was convicted of a breach of the peace committed on Lawrence Creek a few Sundays ago and his penalty was fixed at a fine of $100.

The trial of Albert Grayson on the charge of feloniously breaking and entering a store-house was continued yesterday until next Monday.

The grand jury has reported the following indictments:

Harrison Vance and others, breach of the peace.

Ellen Gillespie, keeping a disorderly house.

Henry Schroeder and others, keeping a disorderly house.

The trial of Vance and some seven or eight other negroes is set for Friday.

They are the parties engaged in the election riot last August, and have been before the court once under the "Ku Klux" act, but were dismissed.

A Maysville Man in Trouble.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says John Carr had William Bradford, a saloonist on Vine street, near Fifth, arrested Sunday afternoon, on charge of beating him out of $62. Carr had thrown dice with Bradford until he was loser to that amount.

In the Police Court Monday, Bradford was fined $50 and costs for permitting gambling on his premises, and Carr was fined $10 for taking part in the game.

Carr claimed to be a conductor on the Maysville & Big Sandy Railroad.

Burglary at Mt. Carmel.

The store of Adams & Cook, at Mt. Carmel, was entered at an early hour Saturday morning, the safe and cash drawer opened and $350 in currency taken. No clue. The proprietors kept the matter quiet for some time. The safe was an old one opening with a key which the robbers found in the cash drawer.

Miss Lucy Darrett, of Mason County, who has been the guest of Misses Maggie and Lucile Turney, returned home Saturday.—Bourbon News.

The marriage of Miss Mollie Jennings, of Minerva, to Mr. H. C. Botts, of Louisville, will take place on the 25th of this month, at the residence of the bride's mother.

The B. F. Thomas warehouse, on Market street, which is to be sold Wednesday, the 25th, is large enough and strong enough to store fifteen hundred barrels of whisky without damage to the building and without crowding. dj18&27w1t

CONSIDERABLE complaint is made about the reckless manner in which cars are run through the Fifth ward. Mr. J. James Wood's family carriage was within a few feet of the Lexington street crossing the other night when a train dashed by. There was no ringing of the bell or whistling to give warning of the approach. :

GERMANTOWN Lodge, No. 207, A. F. and A. M., has elected the following officers for the present term:

W. M.—Dr. C. C. Coburn.
S. W.—W. C. Johnson.
J. W.—C. K. Sallee.
Secretary—John E. McLain.
Treasurer—Leslie H. Mannen.
S. D.—S. E. Mastin.
J. D.—F. A. Brewster.
Tyler—George Erlon.

SUCH desirable property as the B. F. Thomas warehouse, on Market street, does not change hands often in a lifetime. The present owners have been in possession nearly half a century. It is probable that it will not be sold again in many years. This opportunity once lost can not be regained. If you are considering the advisability of making a judicious investment in gilt-edged real estate, bear the above fact in mind, and don't let a few hundred dollars more or less stand in the way of its purchase. dj18&25w1t

Years Teach More Than Books.

Among other valuable lessons imparted by this teacher is the fact that for a very long time Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Medical Discovery" has been the prince of liver correctives and blood purifiers, being the household physician of the poor man, and the able consulting physician to the rich patient, and praised by all for its magnificent service and efficacy in all diseases of a chronic nature, as malarial poisoning, ailments of the respiratory and digestive systems, liver disease and in all cases where the use of an alternative remedy is indicated.

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMMISSION.

It is Transmitted to Congress by Mr. Cleveland, Accompanied by What He Has to Say on the Subject—Speaker Carlisle Ill. Mr. S. S. Cox Elected Speaker Pro Tem.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The president today transmitted to congress the reports of the special Pacific railroad commission, accompanied by a message, in which he says: "These reports exhibit such transactions and schemes connected with the construction of the aided roads and their management, and suggest the invention of such devices on the part of those having them in charge, for the apparent purpose of defeating any chance for the government's embarrassment, that any adjustment or plan of settlement should be predicated upon the substantial interests of the government rather than any forbearance or generosity deserved by the companies."

The condition of the present management of the Union Pacific company has an important bearing upon its ability to comply with the terms of any settlements of indebtedness which may be offered by the government. After referring in detail to the various grants and benefits derived from the general government by the Union & Central Pacific company, the president continues: "The liberal donations, advances and privileges provided for in this law, were granted by the general government for the purpose of securing the construction of these roads which would complete the connection between our eastern and western coasts, and they were based upon a consideration of the public benefits which would accrue to the entire country from such construction."

"But the protectors of these roads were not content and the sentiment which then seemed to pervade the congress had not reached the limit of its generosity. Two years after the passage of this law it was supplemented and amended in various important particulars in favor of these companies by an act, which provided among other things, that the bonds at the rate already specified should be delivered upon the completion of sections of twenty miles in length instead of forty, that the lands to be conveyed to said companies on the completion of each section of said roads should be ten sections per mile instead of five, that only half of the charges for transportation and service due from time to time from the United States should be retained and applied to the advances made to said companies by the government, thus obliging immediate payment to its debtor of the other half of said charges—and that the lien of the United States to secure the reimbursement of the amount advanced to said companies in bonds which lien declared by the law of 1862 to constitute a first mortgage upon all the property of said companies should become a junior lien and be subordinated to a mortgage which the companies were by the amendatory act authorized to execute to secure bonds which they might from time to time issue in sums not exceeding the amount of the United States bonds which should be advanced to them."

"The immense advantages to the companies of this amendatory act are apparent, and in these days we may well wonder that even the anticipated public importance of the construction of these roads induced what must now appear to be a reckless and unguarded appropriation of the public funds and the public domain."

"It is almost needless to state that the companies have availed themselves to the utmost extent of the permission given them to issue their bonds and to mortgage their property to secure the payment of the same, by an imbricance having preference of the government's lien and precisely equal to it in amount."

After some rather pointed comment on the manner in which the directors have bargained so as to convey to their pockets all the assets of the companies, the president commends the condition of affairs to the attention of congress, and concludes his message as follows:

"It is quite time that the trouble complications surrounding this entire subject which has been transmitted to us as a legacy from former days, should be adjusted and settled. No one, I think, expects that these railroad companies will be able to pay their immense indebtedness to the government at its maturity. Any proceeding or arrangement that would result now or at any other time in putting these roads or any portion of them in the possession and control of the government is, in my opinion, to be rejected—certainly as long as there is the least chance for indemnification through any other means."

"While the plan presented by a majority of the commission appears to be well devised and gives at least partial promise of the results sought, the fact will not escape attention that its success depends upon its acceptance by the companies, and their ability to perform its conditions after acceptance. It is exceedingly important that any adjustment now made should be final and effective. These considerations suggest the possibility that the remedy proposed in the majority report might well be applied to a part only of these indebted railroad companies."

"The settlement and determination of the questions involved are peculiarly within the province of the congress; the subject has been made quite a familiar one by congressional discussion. This is now supplemented in a valuable manner by the facts presented in the reports herewith submitted. The public interest urges prompt and efficient action."

"GROVER CLEVELAND."

Speaker Carlisle Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Speaker Carlisle was taken suddenly with a congestive chill yesterday while at dinner at the Riggs house. His physicians order rest for a few days, as the nervous system is greatly impaired. The illness of the speaker will doubtless prevent him from presiding over the house for several days, and may prevent him from delivering his revenue reform speech in Georgia next Saturday.

At 4 o'clock this morning Mr. Carlisle was taken with another chill, which lasted several hours, but at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he had improved considerably, and his friends and physicians did not feel nearly so anxious and distressed about him as they did this forenoon.

Vilas and Dickinson Sworn In. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Col. William F. Vilas and Mr. Don M. Dickinson were today sworn in as secretary of the interior and postmaster general respectively. The gentlemen have assumed charge of their respective offices.

House. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Speaker Carlisle being absent, Mr. S. S. Cox, of New York, was elected speaker pro tem.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, submitted the report in the Thoebe-Carlisle contested election case, and gave notice that he would call for action on or before Friday next.

Senate. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The senate has passed without amendment house bill prescribing allowable marks and inscriptions upon wrappers of mail matters.

Electric Lights Froze up. MADISON, Ind., Jan. 18.—The blizzard of Saturday night and Sunday morning was the worst that has visited Madison for years. The fixtures for lowering the electric lights were frozen so solidly as to defy all attempts to lower them, and as a consequence the city was in total darkness for two nights. Several serious accidents have occurred from persons falling, among them Charles Sage, commercial traveler, severely injured about the back. Mrs. John Kelly and Mrs. William Brannell each suffered a broken limb.

No Trouble to the Burglars. FLEMINGSBURG, Ky., Jan. 18.—The store of Adams & Cook, at Mount Carmel, this county, was entered by burglars at an early hour Saturday morning, the safe and cash drawer opened and $350 in currency taken. No clue. The proprietors thought to keep the matter quiet, but were forced to come here for assistance to-day. The thieves, through the owners' reticence, have a good start. The safe was an old one, opening with a key, which the robbers found in the cash drawer.

Found Dead on the Street. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—C. B. Hoffman, twenty-five years old, residing at 1447 North street, was found dead at Fifth and Jefferson streets at half past 12 o'clock this morning. He came to this death from a pistol shot supposed to have been discharged by George Geiger, of 808 North Fourth street. Geiger was arrested and locked up in the Tenth district station house. He and Hoffman were said to have had a quarrel early in the evening.

Suddenly Became Speechless. POINT PLEASANT, Jan. 18.—News has just reached us that Jack Graham, a well-known architect of this place, suddenly became speechless while on a north-bound passenger train on the Ohio River road last Saturday. He immediately got off the train, and, upon the arrival of the next down train, returned to the home of his father, a few miles above here, on the opposite side of the river, apparently as well as ever in other respects.
